

Semi-Plenary on Environmental Justice: “Environmental Justice: Research, Movement, Metanarrative”

Chair: György Málovics – Faculty of Economics and Business Administration Research Centre, University of Szeged

During the semi-plenary participants gain a “developed” and a “developing” world perspective about environmental justice. Contributors outline the state of art of both EJ movements and research within Mexico and the US.

Contributors:

Andrew Szasz (Professor, University of California, Santa Cruz): Environmental Justice in the U.S.: Origins, Trends, Research, Social Movement

David Barkin (Profesor de Economía, Universidad Autónoma Metropolitana-Xochimilco, Mexico): The Construction of Environmental Justice in Latin America: Communities, cosmologies, and collaboration.

During the semi-plenary, contributors outline their messages in 25 to 30 minutes, followed by 30 to 40 minutes discussion with the participation of the audience.

Please note that the location is a 5-10 mins walk from the conference venue.

Further information: <https://www.essrg.hu/en/sparks-2017-esee-conference/>